Summary of Findings

The survey measured constructs that are important for achieving positive outcomes related to each community prevention strategy: quality, satisfaction, and cultural responsiveness. Multiple questions were asked to capture a complete measure of each. Responses to these questions were aggregated to create a scale. The scale findings show the average percent of community members who have favorable or unfavorable attitudes regarding each of the constructs.

Prevention Strategy: *Promote positive youth development in the community.

Prevention Strategy: *Utilize and leverage state mass media resources and campaigns to decrease favorable attitudes towards substance use and to change community and social norms, through education and outreach to parents, community members, and visitors.

Prevention Strategy: *Build public support for conventional enforcement of existing laws.
